

respect to the combination of the stock and the written qualified covered call option. In addition, when the owner of the stock acquires the put, the amount of the premium received from the call option is offset, in whole or in part, by the amount of the premium paid for the put option, thus reducing any potential enhancement of investment return on the stock resulting from the receipt of the call option premium. In effect, when the writer of the call option purchases the put, the writer gives up potential enhancement of return on investment to acquire additional risk protection.

Accordingly, in each of the three situations described above, the presence of the purchased put causes the stock and the qualified covered call option to constitute part of a larger straddle within the meaning of § 1092(c)(4)(A).

HOLDINGS

Situation 1. All of the positions in X stock are treated as part of a larger straddle. Section 1092(c)(4) does not apply to any of the positions in X stock.

Situation 2. All of the positions in Y stock are part of a larger straddle beginning on September 6, 2002. Section 1092(c)(4) does not apply to any of the positions in Y stock beginning on that date.

Situation 3. Prior to December 2, 2002, the combination of the qualified covered call option and the underlying shares are not treated as a straddle for purposes of §§ 1092 and 263(g). However, beginning on December 2, 2002, all of the positions in Z stock are part of a larger straddle, and § 1092(c)(4), therefore, does not apply to any of the positions in Z stock beginning on that date.
